59692 – 889 (180) Please note: This option does not admit new student.

Specific Admission Requirements

A postgraduate diploma in intercultural communication, or an Honours degree/ postgraduate diploma in linguistics, a language or a language-related subject, or another qualification accepted by Senate to be equivalent to such an Honours degree/ postgraduate diploma.

Closing Date for Applications

- South African students:
 - Apply by 30 November of the preceding year.
- International students:
 - Apply by 30 August of the previous year.

Programme Structure

The programme focuses on the linguistic aspects of intercultural communication in various domains, including the business sector, health, education, law and the public sector. These aspects are investigated from a variety of theoretical perspectives including those offered by contrastive and ethnographic approaches, pragmatics, sociolinguistics, (critical) discourse analysis and grammatical analysis.

You can choose between two options. Both options require independent research on problematic phenomena in one of the domains mentioned above. In Option 1, the results of the research are presented in the form of a 100% thesis, and in Option 2 in the form of a 50% thesis. Option 2 requires further advanced study of various theoretical approaches to intercultural communication and the accompanying research methodologies, for which you must complete a series of assignments in the first semester. You choose your study theme in consultation with the Department. Your choice is determined by the availability of supervisors and your academic background, interests and professional needs.

Please note: You may write your assignments and thesis in Afrikaans if your supervisor(s) and the concerned examiners are proficient in Afrikaans.
